EL PASO

Verse and Chorus of Song

El Paso Is Calling You

There's a city down in Texas where the Rio Grande flows,
And the password there is progress, it's the only one that goes.
In El Paso it's the motto she is bearing on her crest,
She will thrill you and instill you with the spirit of the west.
For there's ozone in her mountains, there is wealth in her corrals,
And a hearty western welcome for the men who'll be her pals.

CHORUS

Fair El Paso is calling, calling you, for her voice is ringing true
In a message of love, and a call to the west where her trail leads to the land of the best.
Just remember that she is right in step, and you can bet that every step has pep!
So when you see the glisten on the Rio Grande, listen! For El Paso is calling you.

Are each and every one of you buying El Paso made products? Now, honestly, when you order a broom, do you ask for an El Paso made broom—made by our friend Glenn? After lunch at Brother Orndorff's or Brother Humphries, do you ask for Charlie Ederle's or Walter Kohlberg's El Paso made cigars?

Do you know that the Sharpe-Elliott Manufacturing Company make a fine grade of macaroni?

That friend Bill Owen of the El Paso Refining Company makes as good a shortening as can be bought anywhere under the sun?

That Harrison Finley won't take off his hat to anyone in the country when it comes to real coffee quality?

That Joe Peyton's hams are second to none because they are made in the El Paso way? Did you know that our mutual friend, Bienenmann's Furniture Polish, will make that old dining room table look like a new one?

You may not know it, but what El Paso needs are smokestacks—then some more smokestacks. Don't worry about the smoke—when it becomes a nuisance our good City Council can make us all put in smoke consumers and we will all be glad to do it if you can bring about that consummation so devoutly to be wished.

We say business is dull—with a sack of Minneapolis Flour in the pantry, a can of California Coffee on the shelf, a Philadelphia cigar between our lips, St. Louis fire brick in the chimney. Of course it is dull and will continue to be dull until we begin to order our Home Products so consistently that every local industry will be running three full shifts. What will that mean? It simply will mean prosperity—for one and all. Other factories will hear of the El Paso spirit—and will come to El Paso until we will have to establish a dinner pail factory to keep up with the demand. You can talk at Chamber of Commerce meetings till you are blue in the face about wanting more industries, but you won't get them, my friends, UNTIL YOU PATRONIZE to the full limit THOSE ALREADY ESTABLISHED.

Let's call a spade a spade. If you can get a good cigar in El Paso, a good sack of flour (and our friends, the Community Milling Company, make good flour, too) and don't buy each in El Paso, you are little better than a TRAITOR to your home town. Do you get me?—TRAITOR. It doesn't sound good to you, that name, but every time you send 50 cents or a dollar to Key West, Kalamazoo, or some other seaport, you have actually deprived your good home town of that amount.

This advertisement you may think sounds different—rather peculiar. Charlie Ederle, Joe Peyton, Walter Kohlberg, or anyone else, is not spending one cent towards its cost. This treat is on the Globe Mills, who are broad enough to realize what benefits ANY manufacturer in El Paso benefits THEM.

Business a little quiet? Ask the landlord. Now Mr. Real Estator, Mr. Insurance Man, Mr. Property Owner, Mr. Banker and other non-producers—throw out that can of California Coffee, buy an El Paso can; throw out that Nebraska broom and get one of Glenn's brooms, and incidentally, as soon as that sack of Kansas flour is used up (it costs too much to throw it away) get an El Paso made sack. Make the round of the house and have a thorough house cleaning from cellar to garret on that basis and if all of you do it—why, you won't know your town in a real short time. Almost presto! foreign capital will actually be falling over itself to get into the running. Use El Paso made products and help the Southwest grow. In what other section are you interested?
